Editorial Review

About the Author

I'm a Dutch professional illustrator with a passion for the female form and for comic stories (or graphic novels).

I combined the two in Kristina, Queen of Vampires.

How that really started was unusual, to say the least.

I met an actual Kristina (from the United States) online. She had found a painting in my online galleries that looked just like her and she sent me a photo to prove it. I made that particular painting, a sexy vampire, from my imagination but the resemblance with Kristina was indeed striking.

That's why I decided to invite her to pose live for me and, even though I didn't expect it, she actually took me up on that offer.

I was quite surprised when she really showed up on the agreed date and I found it creatively stimulating enough to make her the main character in this new comic series. It took me a couple of years to create the first Chapter.

I didn't really do an entire Book before and it took some time to get it right.

Before that I just made gag-comics for a Heavy Metal Magazine in the Netherlands and the UK and for an American Football magazine in Germany. Making a full fledged book turned out to be a very different discipline. But eventually, after having started all over again after the first 15 pages which didn't appeal to me enough,

I found the right tone and mood. Soon Chapter 3 will hit the market, so the mood is still alive and kicking :)

I hope you'll enjoy reading it as much as I did writing and painting it.
