Editorial Review

From the Publisher

If you're looking for a good, fun read to take along to the beach or poolside this summer, you won't find one better than Susan Kiernan-Lewis's debut mystery. This fast-paced novel provides a delicious escape into the sights, sounds, tastes, and smells of Provence--with a healthy dash of murder thrown in. Kiernan-Lewis writes with meticulous attention to detail, capturing the ambience of a land renowned by lovers and artists for its sensuousness, dazzling light, and windswept horizons. If you've ever dreamed of putting everything in storage and moving to the backwoods of France, this book is for you. Or if you just want to experience France vicariously this summer without the jet lag, this book is for you.

Parlez-vous murder?

From the Author

I love France, especially the south of France. Writing "Murder à la Carte" was like taking an extended vacation there. I hope reading it affords the same experience...without all the murders, of course!

About the Author

Susan Kiernan-Lewis, a francophile and former Air Force brat, spent part of her childhood in a French village in Alsace-Lorraine. She lives in Atlanta with her husband and young son.
