Editorial ReviewAbout the Author

James Forster started to work on forex in 2008. He started by losing money. He has a family and he knows how painful and frustrating it is when you don't get the result you expect.

He had to find by his own, the way to earn money. Of course he tried many courses. Some were for free, some costed a lot. He read many books on markets, forex, indicators, trading. He even paid two so-called experts. And like many, he trusted some brokers' promises.

What certainly matters most is that he like you.

He is a private individual trader. He is not a bank employee. Neither is he a teacher nor a journalist. He knows what he talks about. He practiced and still practices what he teaches.

It took him 4 years to understand Forex trading. 4 years to learn how to make money significantly and to make his living from it.

This learning has been frustrating, painful, stressful and difficult to stand with a family to sustain.

He doesn't wish this to anyone who wants to start on Forex. That's why he decided to write this book.

He has his office at home, with an internet connection.

He helps the village school. Many people wonder what he does, because he is often outside, playing with his youngest son, cycling, jogging, shopping. Or the family goes skiing when it is the season. They change their two cars every other year and he leads a nice life. And this is what he wishes you, for you too. Users
