It remains to be seen which will have succumbed when the present youth of the city shall have become her legislators, magistrates, and social representatives. "As a specimen of the thoughts and feelings of some on the spot, I give the following." Liberty of thought and opinion is_ strenuously maintained: in this ppoud land it has become almost a wearisome cant: our speeches and journals, religious and political, are made nauseous by the vapid and vain-glorious reiteration. But does it, after all, characterise any community among us? Is there any oneto which a qualified observer shall point, and say, There opinion is free? On the contrary, is it not a fact, a sad and deplorable fact, that in no land on this earth is the mind more I fettered than it is here? that here what we call public opinion has set up a despotism, such as exists nowhere else? Public opinion,--a-tyrant, sitting in the dark, wrapt up in mystification and vague terrors of obscurity; deriving power no one knows from whom; like an Asian monarch, unapproachable, nnimpeachable, undethronable, perhaps illegitimate,--but irresistible in its power to quell thought, to repress action, to silence conviction,---and bringing the timid perpetually under an unworthy bondage of mean fear to some impostor opinion, some noisy judgment, which gets astride on the popular breath for a day, and controls, through the lips of im_p-udent folly, the speech and actions of the wise. From this influence and rule, from this bondage to opinion, no community, as such, is free; though doubtless individuals are. But your community, brethren, based on the p...
